What is Malta?

A group of islands including, Malta the main island just 95sq miles, with two neighbouring islands of Gozo and Comino. It lies 60 miles south of Sicily and 160 miles N of Libya, in the heart of the Mediteranean.

Malta's capital is Valletta, a fortified 16th century city built by the knights of St John. Small towns and villages.

Gozo is a more rural version of Malta.

Comino has a famous blue lagoon which is a short boat trip away from Malta.

Malta is famous for being a coaling or bunkering island during WW2. It was heavily targeted by both the Italians and the Germans. On 16th April 1942 King George VI granted the George Cross to the whole Maltese population for their gallantry.
